A top veterinarian in the industry is weighing in on one of the undercover videos animal activists shot at Fair Oaks Farms.

The video released last week was shot from a milking parlor and barn at the nation's largest dairy. The Center For Food Integrity established an Animal Care Review Panel of top veterinarians to assess this undercover video and provide clarity of what's common practice and what's not.

AgDay national reporter Betsy Jibben had a discussion with one of the panelists, Dr. Jan Shearer, a Professor and Extension Veterinarian at the College of Veterinary Medicine at Iowa State University to break it down scene by scene.
